

Enthused by the SOUNS programme

Katie Thomson, a peace corps volunteer from America, recently became involved in Robin and Edie's SOUNS project. She is proud to say: "SOUNS is definitely my favourite class I teach, and I look forward to it every day. Thanks so much for everything."

Katie feels that when most of the students have a good grasp of English, it's easy to work with them. But when it comes to creche students and grade R students, you cannot work with them until you yourself have a good grasp of their home language, or you have someone to help translate.

Katie is pictured on the right with the grade R teacher (who will take over teaching SOUNS when she leaves) and their grade R class.
